Grub Control

These insects cause severe damage and can even ruin your lawn, potentially costing you thousands of dollars in restorative costs. We begin prevention in the early spring to ensure your turf remains unscathed by these relentless creepy crawlies.

Aeration

An extremely beneficial process, aeration is the removal of small cores of soil to allow air, water and nutrients to reach the root zone.

Overseeding

Annual overseeding will significantly improve a lawn and make it much harder for weeds and moss to become established. We use a broadcast spreader, like we do for granular fertilizer applications, to evenly distribute grass seed over the lawn.

Top Dressing

Topdressing the lawn is the process of adding a fine layer of a mixture of materials to the lawn's surface. Topdressing benefits the lawn as it builds up the quality of the soil over time and also stimulates the grass to produce new shoots, resulting in denser turf which helps to combat the onset of weed infestations.

Lime Applications

This advantageous service creates many positive results, including correcting soil acidity, furnishing important nutrients and increasing beneficial bacteria that creates favorable soil structure and relationships.
